Message from the Rector

Dear People of God,

Life is difficult. And as we grow older, we need to ask an important question—Is life making be bitter or better? Tough question, considering the complexities and struggles life holds on the journey.

I share with you a powerful poem which may alter our perspective regarding elderly people. Please read . . . and pass it on . . .

When an old man died in the geriatric ward of a nursing home in North Platte, Nebraska, it was believed that he had nothing left of any value. Later, when the nurses were going through his meager possessions, they found this poem. Its quality and content so impressed that staff that copies were made and distributed to every nurse in the hospital. One nurse took her copy to Missouri. The elderly man's sole bequest to posterity has since appeared in the Christmas edition of the News Magazine of the St. Louis Association for Mental Health. A slide presentation has also been made based on his simple, but eloquent, poem. And this little old man, with nothing left to give to the world, is now the author of this "anonymous" poem winging across the internet.

Crabby Old Man

What do you see nurses? What do you see? What are you thinking . . . when you're looking at me?
A crabby old man . . . not very wise. Uncertain of habit . . . with faraway eyes?
Who dribbles his food . . . and makes no reply. When you say in a loud voice . . . 'I do wish you'd try!
Who seems not to notice . . . the things that you do. And forever is losing . . . A sock or a shoe?
Who, resisting or not, . . . lets you do as you will, With bathing and feeding . . . The long day to fill?
Is that what you're thinking? . . . Is that what you see? Then open your eyes, nurse, . . you're not looking at me.
I'll tell you who I am . . . As I sit here so still, As I do at your bidding . . . As I eat at your will.
I'm a small child of Ten . . . with a father and mother, brothers and sisters . . . who love one another.
A young boy of Sixteen . . . with wings on his feet. Dreaming that soon now . . . a lover he'll meet.
A groom soon of Twenty . . . my heart gives a leap. Remembering, the vows . . . that I promised to keep.
At Twenty-Five, now . . . I have young of my own, Who need me to guide . . . and a secure happy home.
A man of Thirty . . . My young now grown fast, bound to each other . . . with ties that should last.
At Forty, my young sons . . . have grown and are gone, But my woman's beside me . . . to see I don't mourn.
At Fifty, once more, babies play 'round my knee, Again, we know children . . . My loved one and me.
Dark days are upon me . . . my wife is now dead. I look at the future . . . shudder with dread.
For my young are all rearing . . young of their own. And I think of the years . . . and the love that I've known.
I'm now an old man . . . and nature is cruel. 'Tis jest to make old age . . . look like a fool.
The body, it crumbles . . . grace and vigor, depart. There is now a stone . . . where I once had a heart.
But inside this old carcass . . . a young guy still dwells, and now and again . . . my battered heart swells.
I remember the joys . . . I remember the pain. And I'm loving and living . . . life over again.
I think of the years, all too few . . . gone too fast. And accept the stark fact . . . that nothing can last.
So open your eyes, people . . . open and see. Not a crabby old man . . . Look closer . . . See ME!!!

Remember this poem when you next meet an older person who you might brush aside without looking at the young soul within. We will all, one day, be there, too! The best and most beautiful things of this world can't be seen or touched. They must be felt by the heart.

And remember—Today is the youngest you will ever be the rest of your life!

Growing older with you,
(no matter your age)

Fr. Greg

Stewardship

Today we celebrate the Second Sunday in Ordinary Time. Many Catholics do not fully understand the meaning and importance of Ordinary Time. Ordinary is based upon the fact that the Sundays during this time are numbered, and that is because they do not fall into the various seasons of Advent, Christmas, Lent, or Easter. That does not make this time of year unimportant; in fact Ordinary Time is far from unimportant or uninteresting.

Our Gospel Reading today is quite short. However, it contains an important revelation from St. John the Baptist about Jesus, our Lord and Savior. John the Baptist testifies, "I saw the Spirit come down like a dove from heaven and remain upon him." We are fond in the Church to use the symbol of the dove to represent the Holy Spirit, but what John says is not that the Spirit was a dove, but it descended like a dove.

The Spirit descends upon us as well throughout our lives as Catholics. At our Baptism the Holy Spirit came upon us, and we received the fullness of the Holy Spirit's gifts at Confirmation. Nevertheless, we receive the Holy Spirit at every Mass and especially at the Eucharist. Just as John the Baptist spoke of seeing the Holy Spirit descend upon the Lord, that same Holy Spirit descends upon us.

You probably have never paid much attention to how a dove actually descends. It sort of hovers and floats downward. Its descent is smooth, deliberate, and in its own unique way. This Spirit has descended upon us and continues to do so. It fills us. What do we do with it? It is part of our very being, but for it to be effective we must share it and use it.

Our Pope Emeritus Benedict XVI once said, "No one can give that which they do not personally possess, which means we cannot transmit the Holy Spirit if we ourselves are not close to the Spirit."
