Holy Name Cathedral

Mission Statement

As missionary disciples of Jesus Christ we celebrate, transform, and engage our diverse Cathedral parish through worship, life-long formation and service to one another.

Mass Schedule

Daily Mass: 6:00, 7:00, 8:00 am, 12:10, 5:15 pm
Saturday: 8:00 am, 12:10 pm
Vigil Masses: 5:15 pm and 7:30 pm
Sunday: 7:00, 8:15, 9:30, 11:00 am; 12:30, 5:15 pm

FEAR

Unless you are already a full saint or a mystic, you will always live in some fear of death and the afterlife. That's simply part of being human. But we can, and must, move beyond our fear of God.

As a child, I lived with a lot of fear. I had a very active imagination and too-frequently imagined murderers under my bed, poisonous snakes slithering up my leg, deadly germs in my food, playground bullies looking for a victim, a hundred ways in which I could meet an accidental death, and threats of every kind lurking in the dark. As a child, I was often afraid: afraid of the dark, afraid of death, afraid of the afterlife, and afraid of God.

As I matured, so too did my imagination; it no longer pictured snakes hiding everywhere or murderers under my bed. I began to feel strong, in control, imagining the unknown, with its dark corners, more as opportunity for growth than as threat to life. But it was one thing to block out fear of snakes, murderers, and the dark. No so easily did I overcome my fear of death, fear of the afterlife, and fear of God. These fears are the last demons to be exorcised, and that exorcism is never final, never completely done with. Jesus, himself, trembled in fear before death, before the unknown that faces us in death. But he didn't tremble in fear before God, the opposite in fact. As he faced death and the unknown, he was able to give himself over to God, in childlike trust, like a child clinging to a loving parent, and that gave him the strength and courage to undergo an anonymous, lonely, and misunderstood death with dignity, grace, and forgiveness.

We need never be afraid of God. God can be trusted. But trust in God does include a healthy fear of God because one particular fear is part of the anatomy of love itself. Scripture says: The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom. But that fear, healthy fear, must be understood as a reverence, a loving awe, a love that fears disappointing. Healthy fear is love's fear, a fear of betraying, of not being faithful to what love asks of us in return for its gratuity. We aren't afraid of someone we trust, fearing that he or she will suddenly turn arbitrary, unfair, cruel, incomprehensible, vicious, unloving. Rather we are afraid about our own being worthy of the trust that's given us, not least from God.

But we must trust that God understands our humanity: God doesn't demand that we give him our conscious attention all of the time. God accepts the natural wanderings of our hearts. God accepts our tiredness and fatigue. God accepts our need for distraction and escape. God accepts that we usually find it easier to immerse ourselves in entertainment than to pray. And God even accepts our resistances to him and our need to assert, with pride, our own independence. Like a loving other embracing a child that's kicking and screaming but needs to be picked up and held, God can handle our anger, self-pity, and resistance. God understands our humanity, but we struggle to understand what it means to be human before God.

For many years, I feared that I was too immersed in the things of this world to consider myself a spiritual person, always fearing that God wanted more from me. I felt that I should be spending more time in prayer, but, too often, I'd end up too tired to pray, more interested in watching a sports event on television or more interested in sitting around with family, colleagues, or friends, talking about everything except spiritual things. For years, I feared that God wanted me to be more explicitly spiritual. He probably did! But, as I've aged, I've come to realize that being with God in prayer and being with God in heart is like being with a trusted friend. In an easeful friendship, friends don't spend most of their time talking about their mutual friendship. Rather they talk about everything: local gossip, the weather, their work, their children, their headaches, their heartaches, their tiredness, what they saw on television the night before, their favorite sports teams, what's happening in politics, and the jokes they've heard recently—though they occasionally lament that they should ideally be talking more about deeper things. Should they?

John of the Cross teaches that, in any longer-term friendship, eventually the important things begin to happen under the surface, and surface conversation becomes secondary. Togetherness, ease with each other, comfort, and the sense of being at home, is what we give each other then.

That's also true for our relationship with God. God made us to be human and God wants us, with all of our wandering weaknesses, to be in his presence, with ease, with comfort, and with the feeling that we are at home. Our fear of God can be reverence or timidity; the former is healthy, the latter is neurotic.

Stewardship

Being God Centered

Stewardship is, of course, more than just a philosophy; it is total way of life. It is living out a commitment on our part to be God-centered rather than self-centered, which in many ways seems to be the antitheses of lifestyles that are promoted and supported by today's secular society.

Jesus presents us with more parables in today's Gospel from St. Matthew. He opens the first one with "Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a treasure hidden in a field, which a man found and hid; and for joy over it he goes and sells all that he has and buys that field." According to most biblical scholars and theologians who study and draw conclusions on Jesus' teachings, in this particular parable, and those which follow, the field is the world. The man who values the treasure is not any of us because we do not have anything with which to purchase this treasure. The Man Who gave all to buy this field was Jesus Himself.

And it is with joy that He gives all to buy the field, to save the world and each of us. What makes the treasure so wonderful that the Lord would give all, His very life? Each of us. In other words, each of you! Jesus gave everything to redeem the whole world to preserve a treasure it contains. He gave all because we His people are the treasure. Do we understand that? Do we consider that every time we approach the gift of the Eucharist? We should. St. Paul may have put it best in his letter to the Romans: "You are loved more than you will ever know, by someone who died to know you." (Romans 5:8)

Interested in Becoming Catholic? Seeking to become fully Catholic through the reception of first Eucharist and Confirmation?

We would love to talk with you regarding your interest, questions, and how you can move forward in your journey. If you would like to learn more about this, have questions about RCIA (Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults), or other related questions, please contact the Faith Formation department.

The registration form can be found online or you can contact Fr. Don Cambe.

Women's Ministry & Lectio Divina

All women are invited to join the Women's Spirituality Group each Saturday morning for Lectio Divina. Join us in the Rectory at 8:30 a.m. to reflect on Sunday's Gospel.

This is an opportunity to read and reflect on the Gospels in a way that encourages a deeper understanding of the passage and a deepening of your journey with God.

Feel free to drop in any week. This is a warm and inviting group.

Weekly Bible Study

This summer, consider joining the Bible Study. This is a great way to continue your spiritual journey and form friendships with your fellow parishioners.

Join us for an opportunity to explore the readings of Sunday Mass. Bible study is every Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Rectory.

If interested in any of these programs contact Fr. Don Cambe

A Note from Jennifer...

For two years I have counted myself blessed and honored to serve the people of Holy Name Cathedral and the surrounding community as Faith Formation Director. Beginning August 14, I will venture to the Archdiocese to take on a new role serving Chicago Catholics as Evangelization and Missionary Discipleship Coordinator. Please know that I will treasure my memories of the Cathedral and keep all of you in my prayers, I ask that you keep me in yours.

Peace,
Jennifer Delvaux

Children's Religious Education

Friends of Fr. Augustus Tolton

Fr. Augustus Tolton is the first black priest in the United States, the first black priest in the city of Chicago. He accomplished so much in his 43 years of life: a perilous escape from slavery, an education that brought him to Rome for his seminary and ordination, his first mass at St. Peter's on April 25, 1886. He is now a candidate for canonization.

Learn more about his life and story as his friends gather on the third Sunday of most months to study and pray for his sainthood. Join us on August 20 at 12:00 PM when Bishop Perry will bless our Fr. Tolton icon.

Cathedral Filipino Network

C.F.N. meets on the second Sunday of the month. The August meeting is the 13th at 2:00 PM in the rectory. There are many events to plan, including:

November 11 - - Memorial Mass;
December 18 - - Simbang Gabi;
January 13 - - Santo Nino Mass.

Come join us!

Running in the Chicago Marathon?

Are you or someone you know training for the big event on Sunday, October 8? Then you are invited to the 5:15 PM Mass on Saturday, October 7 for a blessing.

Also keep in mind that our Parish Life Commission is hosting a pasta dinner in our Parish Center immediately after Mass.

Coffee In the Courtyard

Back by popular demand - The Parish Life Commission is sponsoring Coffee in the Courtyard on Sunday, August 13 from 9:00 AM - 12:30 PM.

All are welcome. Meet new friends and catch up with old friends while enjoying complementary coffee and tea, donuts, muffins and lemonade provided by Sunny Side Up and Coffee Shop (4-Star Yelp rating).

Thankyou again to our generous donor Brian Sord on behalf of Sunny Side Up & Coffee Shop, located at 42 E. Superior Street.

Golden Wedding Anniversary Mass

Holy Name Career Network

Our mission is to help talented professionals find jobs in the community. We are seeking help from parishioners, like you, in the following 3 ways:

Provide job opportunities:

Share job postings at your company/organization
with our network

Serve as a Facilitator

Provide insight into company culture and the hiring process with candidates

Provide Guidance

Share your knowledge about career development and networking skills at one of our monthly meetings.

If you would be willing to help, please contact

Annual School Supply Drive

It's that time of year again! Our parish Human Concerns Commission is sponsoring its annual School Supply Drive on the weekend of August 12 & 13, before and after all the Masses. Supplies are needed for all grades,
Pre-K through 12. And as always, cash
donations are appreciated.

The two schools who will benefit from your kindness are Academy of St. Benedict the African (6020 S. Laflin St.) serving the African American Community on Chicago's south side and Our Lady of Tepeyac High School (2228 S. Whipple St.) a female college prep school in a large Mexican American community in the city.
