ON FRIENDSHIP

May 21, 2018

One of the richest experiences of grace that we can have this side of eternity is the experience of friendship.

Dictionaries define friendship as a relationship of mutual affection, a bond richer than mere association. They then go on to link friendship to a number of words: kindness, love, sympathy, empathy, honesty, altruism, loyalty, understanding, compassion, comfort, and (not least) trust. Friends, the dictionaries assert, enjoy each other's company, express their feelings to each other, and make mistakes without fear of judgment from the other.

That basically covers things, but to better grasp the real grace in friendship a number of things inside that definition need explication.

First, as the Greek Stoics affirmed and as is evident in the Christian spirituality, true friendship is only possible among people who are practicing virtue. A gang is not a circle of friendship, nor are many ideological circles. Why? Because friendship needs to bring grace and grace is only found in virtue.

Next, friendship is more than merely human, though it is wonderfully human. When it is genuine, friendship is nothing less than a participation in the flow of life and love that's inside of God. Scripture tells us that God is love, but the word it uses for love in this case is the Greek word agape, a term which might be rendered as "family", "community", or "the sharing of life". Hence the famous text ("God is Love") might be transliterated to read: God is family, God is community, God is shared existence, and whoever shares his or her existence inside of community and friendship is participating in the very flow of life and love that is inside the Trinity.

But this isn't always true. Friendship and family can take different forms. Parker Palmer, the contemporary Quaker writer, submits: "If you come here faithfully, you bring great blessing." Conversely, the great Sufi mystic, Rumi, writes: "If you are here unfaithfully, you bring great harm." Family and community can bring grace or block it. Our circle can be one of love and grace, or it can be a one of hatred and sin. Only the former merits the name friendship. Friendship, says St. Augustine, is the beauty of the soul.

Deep, life-giving friendship, as we all know, is as difficult as it is rare. Why? We all long for it in the depths of our soul, so why is it so difficult to find? We all know why: We're different from each other, unique, and rightly cautious as to whom we give entry into our soul. And so it isn't easy to find a soulmate, to have that kind of affinity and trust. Nor is it easy to sustain a friendship once we have found one. Sustained friendship takes hard commitment and that's not our strong point as our psyches and our world forever shift and turn. Moreover, today, virtual friendships don't always translate into real friendships.

Finally, not least, friendship is often hindered or derailed by sex and sexual tension. This is simply a fact of nature and a fact within our culture and all other cultures. Sex and sexuality, while they ideally should be the basis for deep friendship, often are the major hindrance to friendship. Moreover, in our own culture (whose ethos prizes sex over friendship) friendship is often seen as a substitute, and a second-best one at that, for sex.

But while that may be in our cultural ethos, it's clearly not what's deepest in our souls. There we long for something that's ultimately deeper than sex – or is sex in a fuller flowering. There's a deep desire in us all (be that a deeper form of sexual desire or a desire for something that's beyond sex) for a soulmate, for someone to sleep with morally. More deeply than we ache for a sexual partner, we ache for a moral partner, though these desires aren't mutually exclusive, just hard to combine.

Friendship, like love, is always partly a mystery, something beyond us. It's a struggle in all cultures. Part of this is simply our humanity. The pearl of great price is not easily found nor easily retained. True friendship is an eschatological thing, found, though never perfectly, in this life. Cultural and religious factors always work against friendship, as does the omnipresence of sexual tension.

Sometimes poets can reach where academics cannot and so I offer these insights from a poet vis-à-vis the interrelationship between friendship and sex. Friendship, Rainer Marie Rilke suggests, is often one of the great taboos within a culture, but it remains always the endgame: "In a deep, felicitous love between two people you can eventually become the loving protectors of each other's solitude. ... Sex is, admittedly, very powerful, but no matter how powerful, beautiful, and wondrous it may be. If you become the loving protectors of each other's solitude, love gradually turns to friendship."

And as Montaigne once affirmed: "The end of friendship may be more important than love. The epiphanies of youth are meant to blossom and ripen into something everlasting."

Welcome St. Chad's College Chapel Choir

The choir is one of several collegiate chapel choirs from Durham University in North East England. Our primary function is to sing at the College Chapel services: typically a Eucharist on Sunday morning and a midweek Choral Evensong or Choral Eucharist. The range of music is large, with settings by Renaissance through to contemporary composers. The choir is privileged to sing in Durham Cathedral usually once or twice each term and gives regular concerts in the chapel and elsewhere. Regular visits are made to other UK cathedrals, lately to St. Pauls in London and York Minster. A foreign tour is undertaken annually, which is a huge part of the choir's heritage and identity. Recent trips have included Jersey, Amsterdam, New York and Prague. At full strength, the choir consists of up to 36 singers, 12 of whom are formally auditioned as Choral Scholars and a further 24 who are auditioned more informally. This has given a happy and sociable blend of musical experiences and led to the thriving choir we have today.

LECTORS

Proclaimers of the Word of God

The Lector is a proclaimer of the Word of God, and also a minister of hospitality by extending a welcome as a commentator to those gathered for worship. Our goal at Holy Name Cathedral is that hearing the Word of God proclaimed by our Lectors will open wide the doors to Christ for the faithful because of the love of scripture that stems from their ministry.

To become a Lector you need to be a Catholic in good standing having received the Sacraments of Initiation (Baptism, Eucharist and Confirmation), be at least age 16 or older, be a parishioner and have a desire to share your faith and an encounter with Christ through the words of scripture.

Our Cathedral, Our Home

Did You Know?

Holy Name Cathedral is both a parish and the seat of the Archdiocese of Chicago. It has grown from a parish in a small wooden church built under extreme hardship to today's flourishing Faith Community. As the home of the archdiocese, Cardinal Blase Cupich is the Pastor of Holy Name Cathedral. Therefore, Fr. Greg Sakowicz is considered the Rector of Holy Name Cathedral.

What is the difference between a Pastor and a Rector? The word Cathedral comes from the Latin "Cathedra" meaning "Chair of the Bishop." Therefore, Cardinal (Archbishop) Blasé Cupich is Pastor of Holy Name Cathedral. However, Cardinal Cupich is unable to Pastor our Cathedral because he is the shepherd of the entire Archdiocese of Chicago. His cup is overflowing so pastoring Holy Name Cathedral, and the whole archdiocese would be an entirely impossible task. Cardinal Cupich appointed Fr. Greg two years ago (July 1, 2016) as Rector of the Cathedral. His role is to lead our Faith Community in his name as our Rector.

The Cathedral offers 35 masses every week plus a variety of special masses for Holy Days and seasonal activities. On average, we welcome about 6,200 people every week to join us for the celebration of the Holy Eucharist. The first people Mass attendees often see are our welcoming Ushers. They hand out over 150,000 copies of our bulletin every year! Be sure to take yours home with you today to read about all of our Faith Community activities.

Staff members, Fr. Marek Smolka and Michelle Peltier, support the Ushers Ministry. Interested in joining? Email mpeltier@holynamecathedral.org.

CATHEDRAL Gala 2018

We share a common heritage with generations of parishioners who came before us and supported Holy Name Cathedral. It is now our turn. Once a year, we ask parishioners and visitors to help us care for our home. The Cathedral Gala is our sole fundraiser. Please join us!

The Four Seasons Hotel

Welcome Home

Nothing can make you feel better than receiving a warm welcome when you return home. The Ushers at Holy Name Cathedral are the front line of welcoming the thousands of parishioners and visitors who come together to share the Eucharistic celebrations each weekend.

Whether seating, greeting, or assisting our brothers and sisters in faith, the Usher provides a tremendous sense of hospitality. While taking the Sunday collection is a part of their responsibility, their primary role is to make our parishioners and visitors feel welcome in our home.

Deb Kubes is one of the smiling faces that greets people attending the 5:15p Mass each Sunday. She has been a member of Holy Name Cathedral Parish for three years and a member of the Ushers Ministry for the last two years. Deb became involved in this ministry after attending a retreat at Holy Name Cathedral after her husband passed.

In Deb's words, "The Holy Name community is such a warm, welcoming, caring group, within a vast Cathedral, that I felt such love and companionship here. I have made even more friends through this ministry. I never considered that I would be giving this love and caring to people coming to Mass, but that has what has happened. People from all walks of life yearn for a smile, a friendly face, and a touch of your hand. When I leave Mass, I feel I've touched people, and they have most certainly touched my life. There is great joy in being able to connect with others in the Lord's House; it makes the circle complete."

Deb shares that this ministry has brought her faith to a new level. "I feel very blessed to be a part of the Holy Name community. God has brought me here to serve him, and because of the Ushers Ministry, I then became a Minister of Care at Northwestern Hospital where I spent many years with my husband. I thank the Lord every day for bringing me to this amazing Parish of love where I have found peace."

Deb is also a member of our parish's Faith Formation Commission where she will be working on upcoming Boost Your Beliefs programs. We are very blessed to have Deb as a member of the Holy Name Cathedral Faith Community.

Be sure to say "Hi" to one of our Ushers as you leave church today.
