Statement of Cardinal Blase J. Cupich

Today, a gunman walked into a grade school in Uvalde, TX, and slaughtered at least 18 children. The shooter allegedly killed his grandmother before driving to the school. Authorities say the suspect is dead. He was 18 years old.

The parents were told, "Please do not pick up students at this time. Students need to be accounted for before they are released to your care." Imagine being a parent with a child in that school. Imagine having to bury them.

Parents now face a delay in identifying the victims such was the extent of the damage done to these children's bodies by the killer's weapons.

The NRA has its annual meeting on Friday in Houston, about 300 miles east of the massacre, less than a year after the TX governor signed into law a bill that allows people without license or training to carry handguns.

We don't yet know whether the Uvalde gunman took advantage of "permitless carry," but we do know that America is awash in guns. We have more firearms than people.

It was not always this way. But more Americans died from gun violence in 2020 than during any other year on record: more than 45.000. That was a 25% increase from 2015, and a 43% increase from 2010.

Mass shootings have become a daily reality in America today. Two people died and 7 were injured last week during a mass shooting just down the street from Holy Name Cathedral. Last weekend in Chicago, 28 people were shot.

The size of the crisis, and its sheer horror, make it all too easy to toss up one's hands and declare: Nothing can be done. But that is the counsel of despair, and we are a people of hope. What do we hope for our children?

That as a regular feature of their schooling, they learn how to behave should a shooter attack? That they feel endangered by simply doing what society says is good for them — going to school? That they come to wonder whether they even have futures at all?

Tonight our airwaves will fill with pundits who offer predictable lamentations and warnings and tut-tuts and thoughts and prayers. And we must pray - for the victims, their loved ones, for the parents who will send their kids off to school tomorrow.

We must weep and soak in the grief that comes with the knowledge that these children of God were cut down by a man who was just a few years their senior. But then we must steel ourselves to act in the face of what seems like insurmountable despair.

We know that gun safety measures make a difference. A 2021 Northwestern Medicine study found that the Federal Assault Weapons Ban prevented 10 mass shootings during the 10 years it was in effect. https:// news.northwestern.edu/stories/2021/03/assaultweapon-ban-significantly-reduces-mass-shooting/

Researchers also determined that if the ban had remained in place in the years since it was allowed to expire, it could have prevented another 30 public mass shootings that killed 339 people and injured 1,139 more.

As I reflect on this latest American massacre, I keep returning to the questions: Who are we as a nation if we do not act to protect our children? What do we love more: our instruments of death or our future?

The Second Amendment did not come down from Sinai. The right to bear arms will never be more important than human life. Our children have rights too. And our elected officials have a moral duty to protect them.

Message from Fr. Greg Sakowicz

I echo the words of Cardinal Cupich shared in light of the recent mass shootings in Buffalo, Uvalde, and on our own streets in Chicago, This cannot become the norm. The immeasurable heartbreak facing the victim's families, especially the loss of young innocents, will last their lifetimes. May our sorrow and outrage jolt us into reaching inside ourselves to see what we can do to effect change that will reverse this growing epidemic of violence.

On the Cover

The fresco of Ascension of Jesus in side apse of Church Kostel Svatého Václava in Prague, Czech Republic, painted by S. G.

Rudl (1900).

Jesus' relationship with his disciples changed when he ascended. It did not end. It can be hard enough when a loved one leaves your proximity, perhaps because of a move or job change. It can be even more devastating if that person leaves and the relationship ends, perhaps because of a major fight or even death.

Jesus assures his disciples that their relationship will continue to grow even though he no longer walks the earth with them. The Holy Spirit, the promise of the Father, will be their guide. This same Spirit is our guide too. How often do we "stand there looking at the sky" (Acts 1:10) like the apostles? We look for Jesus up in the clouds - and risk tripping over the divine right in front of us!

All About Ascension: The Fullfilling of God's Plan

By Fr. Andy Matijevic

he Feast of the Ascension of the Lord is celebrated 40 days after Easter. This celebration finds its biblical roots in the first chapter of the Acts of the Apostles (Acts 1:3). The Ascension of the Lord is one of our most significant celebrations because it reminds us that our glorified glorified bodies, after the Resurrection, will be raised to the halls of heaven. Where Jesus goes, we will follow in faith.

It also reminds us that we exist in a unique time between the 'now' and 'not yet.' We know Jesus is risen from the dead, but we wait for the second coming.

There is a distinction between the Ascension of Jesus and the Assumption of Mary, which we will celebrate on Aug. 15. Mary was assumed because of God's power, and Jesus ascended because he possessed God's power. Both feasts teach the faithful that we need to set our eyes on heaven, that this world is passing, and we are made for heaven.

Ascension would fall on Thursday every year, 40 days after Easter if observed traditionally. However, for most of the United States, the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops gave in 1999 the local provinces the power to move the feast to Sunday, giving more people an opportunity to celebrate.

There are still some American provinces where the Feast of the Ascension is celebrated on Thursday and is a Holy Day of Obligation: the ecclesiastical provinces of Boston, Hartford, New York, Newark, Omaha and Philadelphia. These 'provinces' cover more than just their city. For example, the ecclesiastical province of Chicago covers the whole state of Illinois.

So what should you take away from this Feast? Whether you celebrate it liturgically on Thursday or Sunday, the Ascension is a feast celebrating the fulfillment of God's plan. By his Ascension, Jesus can sit at the right hand of God, where he will 'judge the living and the dead and intercede for us.' The Ascension is the final movement of the Paschal Mystery, the Passion, Death, Resurrection and Ascension of the Lord because it shows us that we, too, will one day rise to the heights of heaven and give glory to God for eternity.

First Friday Adoration (New Date)

Thursday, June 2 at 8:30am

The Catechism quotes Pope John Paul II: "The Church and the world have a great need for Eucharistic worship. Jesus awaits us in this sacrament of love. Let us not refuse the time to go to meet him in adoration, in contemplation full of faith, and open to making amends for the serious offenses and crimes of the world. Let our adoration never cease."

Every vocation in the Church comes from and through Christ Jesus. It is He who calls. Spending time in Eucharistic Adoration with our Divine Lord and Friend is a good place to go to ask what he wants with our life. Why not spend some time each week in adoration, in union, in contemplation of the Lord present in the Eucharist?

Join us to spend time together at our First Friday Adoration on this special date for June only — Thursday, June 2 following the 8:00am Mass.

Mercy and Counsel

Wisdom When Caring For Those Facing Illness

By Fr. Bill Moriarity

s we celebrate the mystery of Jesus' living, suffering, death and resurrection. Here is some wisdom I have learned and experienced as a priest and chaplain, listening and responding to those who are ill. Here are 14 things to consider when you are facing illness or caring for a loved one.

Caring means not waiting: If someone is seriously lill, going through serious surgery, or increasingly feels the effects of aging, don't wait to call your parish for the sacrament of healing--Reconciliation, Anointing of the Sick, and the Holy Eucharist.

Sacraments for the living: Sacraments are for the living. Their purpose is to unite the suffering person's ailments to the Lord's passion and resurrection. Again, don't wait until the person can no longer participate actively in these sacraments of hope and draw comfort from them.

■ Breaking silence: Silence and trying to protect each other, when one's illness is difficult, does not allow for honest conversation.

Be ready to communicate: Ask questions, clarify responses, and listen as much as you speak.

When visiting or meeting your loved ones or medical team, call or email everyone in the family about the visit, what you experienced, and how it went that day. Good communication puts an end to secrets and a sense of exclusion.

Be humble: Don't be afraid to say, "I don't understand." Don't be ashamed that you made a mistake or that you misunderstood. Don't dwell on failures. Learn from them

■ Be yourself: When visiting a loved one, be yourself. Laugh, cry, and – when you feel it -- admit that you feel helpless.

In pain: Medical science is a gift from God. Don't hesitate to ask for pain relief when the symptoms of illness prevent good communications and being present to each other.

Care for yourself: When you care for yourself that enables you to care for others. Sleep, eat, exercise, and attend to your own interests, hobbies, and concerns.

Beauty: Appreciate beauty. It feeds the soul. Allow yourself to be caught up in wonder, even as you face difficult circumstances and challenges.

Forgiveness: Sickness can surface hurt or regrets. Forgive and allow yourself to be forgiven.

Honest prayer: Be present with how you feel in your prayers to God. Take a cue from the psalms. Pray your feelings, your memories, your questionings, your rage and frustrations, your fears, and your loneliness.

Mercy: Always remember that God's love and mercy are greater than our imperfections and sins. Take advantage of the healing power of the > Eucharist even when you don't feel worthy or deserving.

Trust: Pray for the trust that God's love and care are bigger than death.

Preparing: Take time to both prepare and allow loved ones to know your desires when you can no longer communicate for yourself.

Tips to Improve Our Mental Health

TOGETHER

Here are five things we can do every day to improve our mental health and wellbeing:

Connect: Build and strengthen relationships with the people around you. Meet up with friends, have lunch with a coworker or join a group in your community. Feeling close to and values by others, including at work, is critical to boosting wellbeing.

Be active: Look for ways to be active every day. Find something you enjoy and that suits your fitness and mobility, like running, walking, gardening, dancing and working on projects around the house.

3 Give: Carrying out acts of kindness for other people, whether small or large, can increase happiness, life satisfaction and a general sense of wellbeing. Make someone a meal, help with a project or volunteer at an organization. You could really just ask a friend or someone you work with how they are and really listen to the answer.

for Mental Health

Take notice: Be present in the here and now. Pay attention to the world around you, nature, people and your thoughts and feelings becoming more aware of the present moment boosts our wellbeing by helping us enjoy the world we have around us and understating ourselves better.

5 Keep learning: Practice new skills and seek information about topics that interest you. Try a recipe, listen to a podcast or fix something in your home. Generally being curious and seeking out new experiences at work and in life can boost your confidence and self-esteem.

Stewardship

Commissioned as Christ's Disciples

On this Feast of the Ascension, we celebrate Christ's triumphant return to the Father after perfectly accomplishing His mission on earth. But we can also view this Feast as a celebration of the "launch day" of our commissioning as Christ's disciples.

Today's Gospel draws our attention to the clear instructions that Jesus gave His disciples (and to us) just before ascending to the Father: "Thus it is written that Christ would suffer and rise from the dead on the third day and that repentance, for the forgiveness of sins, would be preached in his name to all the nations, beginning from Jerusalem. You are witnesses of these things."

Embracing a stewardship way of life, with its emphasis on the use of time, talent and treasure, helps us to live in such a way that our very lives speak as a witness of the Good News of the Gospel. While we take time to reflect and renew our commitments in these three areas annually as a parish family, it is of great benefit to take some time individually throughout the year to take stock of the commitments we have made looking at both our strengths and our need for continued growth in each area.

On this Feast of our "launch day," take some time to celebrate your victories as Christ's disciples and renew your commitment to remain faithful to Him and the unique mission He has entrusted to you!

What is a Mass Intention?

Holy Name Cathedral offers you different possibilities when you request that Mass be celebrated for a particular intention. Requesting a Mass intention means that you are asking that the grace of Christ's sacrifice in his death and resurrection be applied for a particular purpose, for example, for a deceased person or a living person who is ill or in thanksgiving for a favor received.

At Holy Name Cathedral, we celebrate singleintention Masses as well as gathered-intention Masses (Wednesdays at 8:00am and Fridays at 12pm). To request a Mass Intention, please stop by our Rectory during business hours. Any questions, call the Rectory (312) 787-8040.

Light a Prayer Candle

Lighting a candle for your family and friends or for a personal prayer is an important Catholic tradition. We know many of you may not be able to come into the Cathedral to light the candle yourself. It would be our honor to have one of our resident priests light a Cathedral Candle on your behalf. They will pray to our Lord to intercede on behalf of your personal intention.

Just scan the QR code to complete the request form.
